A Cattleman's View

Whitewater, Ar'z , June 2, 1913

Editor PROSPECTOR: -Just a moment would I take to ask If the removal of the county hospital from Tombetone to Douglas resulted in the county taxpayers being mulcted out of over 50 per cent on the estimate or in money, say $30,000, for beavens sake what would we poor little devils with a few bead of cattle get "stung" for on a deal, that at the very lowest estimate would involve $250,000?

No, we farm-re and cattle raisers in the valley are 'earful of what the taxes will be in 1915 and 1916. They will be light to 1914, but when we begin to cover the tracks of the two million dollar appropriations of the legislature now adjourned, in 1915, 16 and 17, the Lord will have pity on our overburdened souls and permit us to see the light whereby we may escape hoisting on our shoulders another half million by foolishly removing the county seat from a good place to a "get away" locality.

Yours for Tombstone and less taxes. A CATTLEMAN.

Artesian Well

in the Valley

Fred Sutton, a prominent capitalis and banker o' Oklahoma City, and son in law of our valley resident, J D Cox, has been endeavoring for some time to get into communication with parties that would contract to sink well in this part of the valley to depth of 2000 feet, but advises the Arizonan, that he has as yet found but one party that would make such a contract, and thinks the terms proposed rather high. It seems that as so such depth bas been reached, in this valley, the unknown d ficulties to be overcome are considered very

The sinking of such a well would in all probability develop an abundance of artesian water, or perhaps oil either one of which would soon po this valley in a class where lands could only be obtained at fancy prices -Courtland Aris ann.

All those who ate the greens were made ill, some only slightly , according to the amount they ate. As greens was a favorite dish of Mrs. Head's she partook of it liberally. For two days following the meal she was in a ball stoper. She re'used to send for a doctor, as she said she was in no pain, but only ·leepy. Friday her condition became so alarming that a physician was called, but the poison had spread through her entire system and the dector could do nothing to save her As we have loco weed in Arizona we deem the time opportune to warp those accustomed to gather "green stuff" from the mess, valley and plain to avoid the deceptive, although indeathly to stock.
